Dear Ms. Hesse,

I just wanted to take a moment and urge you NOT to penalize Microsoft for the "crime" of successfully competing against rival companies. Our antitrust laws are hopelessly muddled and in my opinion should be done away with completely. While I realize that isn't in your power, you will certainly be sending a message by how you choose to deal with Microsoft. Send the right message: that America believes in free enterprise and letting the market -- not the bureaucrats -- dictate how successful a company can become.

Sincerely,
